

Recovery & Me

Voices from Soberstock 2009

I started drinking at age eight, watching my mom do it, I thought she was having fun. I wanted fun too. At 10, drugs came into play and my life changed, at first it was fun and I fit in with all my friends.

After 28 years of drinking, drugging, not being able to keep a job, abusive relationships, moving around a lot, a few rapes, and six kids later...God saw fit to pull me out of the depths of hell.

Today my life is wonderful because of God and AA. Today I know how to be a friend, a sister, a daughter, a worker among workers, and a mom. I'm also a wife today in a healthy marriage. Today I'm sober, because I clean house, help others, and thank God every day.
